From the President

WOW: We had 73 members plus 17 SCWS members who were not TAG members attend Steve Jordan's watercolor demonstration at our February meeting. He gave us a hint of what it is like to paint on smooth surfaces. Many thanks to Steve for a wonderful presentation. We also thank him for contributing to the door prizes with his poster and note cards.

We had 7 new members attend the meeting. We welcome each and everyone. Let's make a special effort to get to know them.

The workshop with Steve Jordan was very successful and we had excellent attendance. He helped those who attended to experiment and experience the challenges and excitement of painting on smooth surfaces, including foam board. WHEW! Many thanks to Niles Storrs for all of his work in coordinating the workshop.

Don't forget - bring some of your work to hang during our social time and don't hesitate to ask your fellow artists for their observations.

We have heard from only a few members about a mall selling show for next year. Let us know if you are seriously interested and would participate.

We can all look forward to Roy Paschal making our presentation at our March 8th meeting. As many of you know, Roy is a forensic artist and should bring an interesting perspective about using our art in our workplace. Look forward to seeing you there. Let's maintain our 70 plus attendance!

February Program

New policies at Blue Cross Blue Shield

To ensure and control the proper inventory of paintings located at Blue Cross Blue Shield Tower, the following new guidelines have been implemented:

1. Each artist will sign in the visitor book and be issued a guest pass.
2. If a painting is being brought into the Tower, the painting will be logged in by the security personnel on the current inventory log sheet.
3. If a painting is being removed by the artist, the painting will be logged out of the current inventory sheet by the security officer.
4. If a painting is sold, the artist will notify the security officer of the buyer's identity and the painting sold. The buyer will be directed to the security desk to log the painting out as being sold.
5. Security officers will not accept any usc/payment from any buyers. The artist will set up a mutually agreed date and time with the buyer to accept payment.
